Military Tribunal Rules Aggressive War Is Supreme Crime; Ex-Leaders Face Verdicts

Forrestal Says U. S. Navy Is Carrying Out U.S. Policy in Mediterranean and Will Stay

Bruhn Will Ask Speedy Grand Jury Action for Soldier

T/Sgt. McAlister Proves Model Prisoner; Dead Man Had Tragic Background

Technical Sergeant James McAlister, 24, of the U. S. Infantry Detachment at West Point, held without bail in the Ulster County jail for the alleged murder of Fred Warden, 23, of Newburgh, proved a model prisoner over the week-end, while District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn moved for a speedy indictment.

The district attorney said McAlister's case would be presented to grand jury now in session some time this week and he expected a quick indictment. McAlister probably will be tried on the first degree murder charge at the November term of the grand jury. The district attorney said that no criminal calendar is scheduled until November.

McAlister was visited over the week-end by a West Point major, presumably his commanding officer and several G. I. friends, Sheriff George C. Smith said.

Mrs. Florence McAlister, the sergeant's wife and third member of what police called the "eternal triangle" did not visit her husband, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Smith described McAlister as a model prisoner who was causing him far less concern than many men held on petty charges.

The sheriff said that he had taken extra precautions Saturday night against possible personal injury on the part of the prisoner by posting a guard at the cell, but McAlister behaved so well that he removed the guard last night.

The youthful technical sergeant talked freely about the alleged murder, Sheriff Smith said, and gave the impression that he was glad it was all over.

Got Some Sleep
"At least," he told the sheriff, "I got some sleep last night, something I haven't been able to do for quite a while."

Meanwhile police investigations on the backgrounds of the principals in the "triangle" murder revealed that both were reared under unfortunate and sub-normal circumstances.

Warden came from a tragic family background, his mother having committed suicide about 15 years ago at Cornwall. The uncle, Roland Warden, of Newburgh, shot and killed his wife, Ivy Warden, on May 21, 1944, in a hallway after she had returned from a drinking bout with another man. Warden was acquitted on charges of temporary insanity.

Discharged in January
Warden was single and had spent the greater part of his life in Cornwall. About six weeks ago he returned to Newburgh and then moved to Highland Mills. He was discharged from service on January 10 of this year and returned to work as a short order cook. He was a cook in the army. Warden met Mrs. McAlister, then Miss Florence Woods, about five years ago when both were employed at the P. & J. Restaurant in Newburgh.

McAlister is held for the murder of Fred Warden, 23, of Newburgh, who is alleged to have been too friendly with Mrs. Florence McAlister. Warden was stabbed to death by McAlister as he sat behind the wheel of his car parked in front of the home of Mrs. McAlister, 73 Brewster street, about 12:25 a. m. Saturday, the police said.

McAlister is alleged to have used a newly purchased jackknife in stabbing Warden in the chest about 10 times after failing to prevail upon his wife to stop seeing Warden.

McAlister waived examination when arraigned before Judge J. Cahill in police court and was held for grand jury action.

Chief of Police Ernest Boss and District Attorney Bruhn described the case as another example of the "eternal triangle." McAlister, they said, went berserk when he was unable to get a satisfactory response to his pleas that Mrs. McAlister quit seeing Warden.

Policy Declaration Comes At Vital Time in Affairs

American Ships Are Supporting Our Occupation Forces and A.M.G. and Protecting United States Interests, He says

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal declared today that United States naval forces are in the Mediterranean to help carry out American foreign policy.

And they will be there for some time to come, the cabinet officer made plain in an unusual policy statement.

Simultaneously, it was learned that when the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt is withdrawn from the troubled sea it will be promptly replaced by another flat top. Previous emphasis on the FDR's Mediterranean cruise has been on the "good will" theme.

Forrestal's policy declaration was released as the American government indicated full backing to Turkey in that country's resistance to Russian demands on the Dardanelles, studied means to aid the present Greek government in its troubles with Russian-supported neighbors and hoped uncertainly for a peaceful settlement with Yugoslavia over the disposition of Trieste.

Persons familiar with the reasons behind the statement said it was drafted about a week ago and hence was not inspired by the fresh Dardanelles conflict or other current controversies.

However, it gave the American people and foreign governments one of the simplest statements of the reasons and purposes underlying the presence of American warships in the Mediterranean to be made since the end of the war.

"Today," Forrestal said, "the United States Navy is continuing to maintain forces in the eastern Atlantic and the Mediterranean Sea for the following specific purposes:

"First, to support the Allied occupation forces and the Allied military government in the dis-

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 30 (AP)—Former Wac Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant was convicted today by a military court of stealing $1,500,000 worth of Hesse family jewels, and was sentenced to five years imprisonment at hard labor, with dishonorable discharge.

Mrs. Durant's husband, Col. Jack Durant, and Maj. David Watson, are awaiting trial on complicity charges in the theft of the jewels from Kronberg Castle.

Mrs. Durant displayed no emotion as the nine-officer court handed down its verdict of guilty on three counts of larceny, embezzlement, and being absent without leave from her military post.

The 43-year-old defendant had been in charge of the Hesse family castle, used as an American Army officers' club, last winter when the jewels disappeared. The Durants were married on their return to the United States from Germany.

Mrs. Durant's attorney pleaded that she was being made the "scapegoat" for all the looting done by American soldiers in occupied Germany.

"Thousands of others have done the same thing," said Lt. Col. John S. Dwinell of Brooklyn, N. Y., in his closing appeal for mercy. "It is unjust to point the finger at this woman and say 'You will pay the penalty for something that the whole world knows many, many people have done with impunity.'"

Labor Experts Toil to Avert New Tieup of U. S. Vessels
Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—With a midnight zero hour, government labor experts worked against time here and in San Francisco today to avert a new strike tie-up of American shipping.

If the walkout comes off on schedule, it will be the second shutdown of this country's ports in less than a month. A.F.L. and C.I.O. seamen's unions paralyzed the greater part of the shipping industry for 17 days earlier in September.

None of the three unions involved in the current crisis shared in the settlement terms of that walkout.

At issue in the government negotiations here are 30 and 53 percent wage boost demands plus union security clauses sought by the C.I.O. Marine Engineers and the A.F.L. Mates Unions.

Federal conciliators on the west coast simultaneously are trying to write a new contract for Harry Bridges' C.I.O. longshoremen, who are seeking worker-safety guarantees and 33-cent-an-hour pay raise for Pacific stevedores.

Contracts of all three unions expire at midnight.

Government hopes that compromises might be reached in all three disputes before the midnight (local port time) deadlines appeared dim.

And there were plain indications that all three unions would strike unless the claims of each could be satisfied in time.

In New York, James Romanoff, local C.I.O. Engineers' business manager, was quoted as saying his union was "unwilling to sign any agreement" unless Bridges' longshoremen got a new contract too.

Both the engineers and longshoremen are affiliated with the A.F.L. Mates Unions.

Livestock Receipts Promise Some Meat

Chicago, Sept. 30 (AP)—Livestock reached the nation's terminal markets in some of the largest numbers of the month today, presaging at least slight improvement in the meat shortage within two or three weeks when processed products reach the retail level.

Sheep not only were ahead of a week ago but a year ago too for the 12 principal markets, totaling 89,800 today, 85,774 a week ago, and 84,426 a year ago.

Hogs remained in short supply at 6,800 for all markets, compared with 6,203 a week ago and 24,231 a year ago.

The total cattle were 103,800 head today, 84,031 a week ago, and 11,793 a year ago.

Admiral King Is Irked, Demands He Be Given Fair Play

War-time Chief of Naval Operators Doesn't Like Criticism of Committee

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—Admiral Ernest J. King demanded today that the Senate War Investigating Committee retract its criticism of him in connection with the joint chiefs of staff's 1943 recommendation for completion of the Canal project.

King was the wartime chief of naval operations.

He read to the committee a statement in which he declared that in "justice and fair play" the committee should "publicly correct the injustice which you have publicly done me."

In his fifth annual report, filed September 1, the committee said that King as a member of the joint chiefs of staff (Army and Navy) had recommended completing the $134,000,000 oil-highway project in Canada despite a stand by the Secretary of the Navy Knox that it should be dropped.

King told the committee that he considered the report also "to impute to me individual responsibility for the chiefs of staff's decision."

He called this both "technically incorrect and morally unjust." As for the stand of Knox in 1943 on the question of completing the efforts to develop an oil field in northwestern Canada, King declared:

"Your statement, which implies that I took action as a member of the joint chiefs of staff in variance with the official position of the secretary of the navy, is not supported by any evidence available to me—nor to you."

O.P.A. Price Board Will Resume Hearings
The Kingston O.P.A. Price Control Board will resume full-scale price ceiling violation hearings Tuesday at the municipal auditorium at 2 o'clock.

The Kingston board has consolidated with the Catskill board under a new setup announced by Lester W. Herzog, director of the 16-county Albany Board. The Albany board will be consolidated into 12, Mr. Herzog said, effecting considerable savings in the operating budget.

Two new investigators chosen from among Kingston applicants will be added to the local staff, Price Control Clerk Charles E. Mullen said today.

The regular weekly hearing of the Price Control Board is expected to conduct more business than at any time since O.P.A. expired and then was revived.

Five Killed in India
Bombay, Sept. 30 (AP)—Five persons were killed and many wounded in Hindu-Muslim clashes in two Indian cities over the week-end.

The toll was four dead and 16 hurt in Bombay and one slain and several wounded in Calcutta, where the trouble Saturday stopped some bus service and led to ban any news or pictures of communal disorders not issued officially.

U. S. Protests Acts By Yugoslavia in Regard to Trieste

Mischievous Propaganda Also Hit in Note; Resents Statement About Six Soldiers

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—The United States government, in a formal protest today, accused Yugoslavia of "disregard" of Allied military regulations in Trieste and of spreading "mischievous propaganda."

In a note over the signature of Undersecretary Will Clayton, the State Department acknowledged that American military authorities in Venezia Giulia had detained six Yugoslav soldiers on September 9 and said they were found carrying hand grenades concealed in their clothing contrary to regulations.

The soldiers, about whom the Yugoslavia government protested, have since been released.

The note, one of a number between the two governments on various incidents, informed Yugoslavia that the arrest had been investigated by an American military board of officers which found the soldiers guilty.

It added that this government "is confident that if Yugoslav military personnel in Zone A (the Anglo-American zone of occupation) will evince an attitude of loyal cooperation toward their Allied comrades in arms in Venezia Giulia, they will meet with a most full and friendly response on the part of American military personnel."

Resents Charges
"At the same time," the note added, "this government desires the Yugoslav government to know that it resents the charges that Allied military authorities took no steps in this matter and that they inspired a small 'fascist' press to give a small false account of the incident, and that it rejects these charges as mischievous propaganda without any foundation in fact."

The arrested six soldiers were guarding U.N.R.R.A. supplies in Trieste near a point where a large explosion had just occurred. The note said the soldiers were searched and found to be carrying hand grenades in their clothing despite instructions that U.N.R.R.A. guards were not to be armed.

The department's note said that investigation showed that the Yugoslav soldiers apparently were not connected with the explosion and that they were escorted to the headquarters of the Yugoslav detachment in Venezia Giulia two days later with instructions that they be sent out of the zone for violation of the standing orders against carrying weapons.

Yugoslavia entered a protest on Sept. 16.

"The government of . . . Yugoslavia," said the American note, "must have been aware of the time its protest was addressed to this government, that the six Yugoslav soldiers had been released to the Yugoslav military authorities in zone A despite their violation of Allied military orders, and this government is therefore unable to see any basis for a Yugoslav protest in this case."

"Instead," it appears that this government must protest once again the disregard shown by officers and men of the Yugoslav detachment in zone A for Allied military regulations in that area."

Registration Starts Friday for Election
Friday and Saturday will be the first two days of registration for the November election in Kingston, and the polls in the 20 voting districts will be opened from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. The last two days of registration will be Friday and Saturday, October 11 and 12.

The polls will be open October 11 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., and on Saturday, October 12, the last day, the polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 10 p. m.

Operators Deluge M.V.B. Office to Renew Licenses

Last Minute Application Forces Drivers to Stand in Line; Deadline Is Midnight

The last minute rush to renew operators' licenses was on today at the Motor Vehicle Bureau office on Main street. Most drivers' licenses expire at midnight and unless renewals are secured there may be difficulty in store for operators of motor vehicles who attempt to operate their cars after the deadline.

Early this morning the line began to form at the Motor Vehicle Bureau office adjoining the county clerk's office and by noon there was a long queue extending to the door, waiting a turn at the license windows.

While licenses may be renewed at any time within a year following expiration without a new test, it is illegal to operate a car with an out-of-date license. Should any driver wait past the year deadline, it will then become necessary to take a driver's test and obtain another driver's license.

Returning service men who earlier in the year renewed licenses when they returned to civilian life and began to operate cars, took some of the last minute rush from the busy Motor Vehicle Bureau clerks.

Stone U. S. Soldiers
Trieste, Sept. 30 (AP)—A group of Trieste civilians identified by investigation officers as "pro-Yugoslav Italian Communists" ambushed and stoned 10 American soldiers here last night, it was disclosed officially today. P.F.C. Raymond L. Rowe of Alhambra, Calif., was hospitalized and several other soldiers were bruised, including Pvt. Jerome G. Gurskie of Shamokin, Pa., who was the first of the group to be attacked. Seven civilians were arrested.

"Instead," it appears that this government must protest once again the disregard shown by officers and men of the Yugoslav detachment in zone A for Allied military regulations in that area."

France Begins Campaign On Proposed Constitution
Paris, Sept. 30 (AP)—France embarked today upon two weeks of heated campaigning over a proposed constitution condemned by Gen. Charles de Gaulle "as the road to anarchy and tyranny."

The constitution assembly early yesterday approved the constitution, 440 to 106. The public will pass judgment upon it in a referendum October 13. Voters last May rejected the first constitution the assembly had framed.

The controlling coalition of President Georges Bidault's popular Republican movement (MRP), Communist and Socialists overcame the Rightist and Radical Socialist opposition in reporting out the new document, providing for parliamentary rather than presidential election of the president.

Gen. De Gaulle, wartime leader of the "Free French" and France's interim president until his resignation last January, sharply criticized the proposed constitution yesterday in a speech at Epinal on the ground that it failed to provide for a president with sufficient strong executive powers.

He asked the voters to reject the constitution because he said it gave too much authority—executive, legislative and judicial—to the national assembly in a manner tending to "lead first to anarchy and then to tyranny."

De Gaulle said France, caught between a Slav bloc led by "a boundless power" and a "young America replete with resources," needed a president "above parties" and strong enough to safeguard the nation's independence.

Under the proposed constitution the French parliament would be made up of a national assembly of deputies elected by the people and a council of the Republic chosen by municipal and cantonal officials through an electoral college system.

Military Tribunal Says German Top Officers Disgrace

Also Says No Individuals Escape Because Their Organizations Are Acquitted

Nuernberg, Sept. 30 (AP)—The International Military Tribunal today branded Germany's generals a disgrace to the "honorable profession" of soldiering but held that the general staff and high command were not criminal as units.

The tribunal convicted the Leadership Corps (the Nazi leadership system), the S.S. (Elite Guard), the S.D. (a spy department), and the Gestapo (secret police) but "declined" to rule on the general staff and high command, the Reich cabinet and the S.A. (Brown-shirts)—in effect acquitting them.

The court emphasized, however, that no individual involved in a crime regardless of the acquittal of his organization could escape punishment because of that acquittal.

The organizations found guilty represent perhaps a million people down to the Nazi block leader who terrorized his neighbors, the S.S. troops now behind barbed wire and the guards who performed hideous tasks at Hitler's slave camps.

Those members who knew what their organizations were doing, the court contended, were convicted automatically. Those who quit such organizations before the invasion of Poland also were acquitted.

The verdict excludes Hitler's old Brown Shirt S.A., which once had 4,000,000 members, from culpability. The tribunal held that the S.A. lost its significance after the purge of 1934 and became relatively unimportant.

Bitter Criticism
Although it declined to hold guilty the notorious general staff, powerful in German politics since Bismarck's time, the court unleashed bitter criticism of the individual members, saying:

"They have been responsible in the past for the crimes of the German people."

Some Units Are Given Acquittal

Goering, Hess, Others Face Conviction on One or More of Four Counts

Verdict Is Long

Judges of Allies Read First Part of 100,000 Word Document

Nuernberg, Germany, Sept. 30 (AP)—The international military tribunal ruled today for the first time in history that conspiracy to commit aggressive war "is a supreme crime" in a monumental verdict indicating imprisonment or the gallows for the 22 former leaders of Nazi Germany.

The German general staff and high command and the Reich cabinet were acquitted of charges that they were criminal organizations. "Certain groups" of the leadership corps, the SS or Elite Guard, the SD (a department which operated a spy system) and the Gestapo were convicted.

The first part of the 100,000-word verdict by judges of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France strongly indicated that Hermann Goering, Rudolf Hess, Joachim von Ribbentrop and the other defendants—politicians, diplomats, military leaders, financiers and party functionaries—would be convicted on one or more of the four counts in the indictment.

The court indicated, however, that some of the lesser defendants might not be sentenced on the part of the indictment charging a conspiracy to commit aggressive war.

"The tribunal has decided that certain of the defendants planned and waged aggressive war against 12 nations and were therefore guilty of this series of crimes," it said.

All defendants are charged with two or more counts and most with three or four under the tribunal charter.

A 5,000-word summary of the judgment, rendered after ten months of a trial such as the world had never seen before, indicated that smaller Nazi party functionaries who might not have been sufficiently important to participate in the main conspiracies would be caught in other counts of the indictment. The court said evidence was "overwhelming."

Men Are Grim
The demeanor of the men listening to their fate generally was grim. Goering and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel both indicated they believed themselves doomed to death. Hjalmar Schacht, former wizard of German finance, sat with the from the other defendants with a pained expression on his face. Hess rolled back and forth in his seat with stomach cramps and had to be taken from the rigidly guarded courtroom.

The defendants will learn their individual fates tomorrow.

Final verdicts and sentences will be delivered tomorrow, when the tribunal concludes the reading of its 100,000-word judgment on the evidence presented by prosecutors for Britain, France, Russia and the United States since the trial began on November 20, 1945.

The tribunal described as "quite overwhelming" the evidence adduced on the four main counts in the indictment, and while naming no names in the early stages, ruled that aggressive war is a crime, that conspiracies existed to wage aggressive war, and that war crimes and crimes against humanity had been committed.

Staff Is Acquitted
It acquitted the German General Staff and High Command, the Reich cabinet of charges that they were criminal organizations, but "certain groups" of the Leadership Corps, the SS (Elite Guard), the SD (a department which operated a spy system) and the Gestapo were convicted on that charge.

Before the reading of the judgment was an hour and a half under way, Hermann Goering, once the No. 2 Nazi, virtually conceded that he was on the way to the gallows by telling defense lawyers:

"I did not expect that they would go through all this to kill us."

Most of the defendant's appeared reconciled to the belief they would be condemned to death.

The tribunal rejected flatly the

Westporters Have Busy Week-End at Big Housing 'Bee'

Westport, Conn., Sept. 30 (AP)—There were sore backs and blistered hands a plenty in a group of Westporters today, but there was solid satisfaction for 21 veterans and their families.

In an adaptation of the old New England custom of "barn raising," volunteers gave up their week-end leisure to lend a hand in assembling seven government barracks brought here from Bradley Field, Windsor Locks.

Pounding nails, sawing lumber and swinging paint brushes, they worked to such effect that six of the barracks had been put into shape, and one was painted by dusk Sunday.

The volunteers—65 turned out Saturday and 85 on Sunday—were praised for a "really wonderful effort" by Hal E. Alton of Fairfield, the contractor in charge, who said his regular crew of union carpenters would have the remainder of the buildings ready for painting next week-end.

Union Carpenters Help

About 20 union carpenters were on hand to guide the amateurs' efforts. Westport Local 1945, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, suspended its rules to permit members to work shoulder to shoulder with non-union men.

Among the volunteers were John Davis Lodge, Republican candidate for the House seat being vacated by Rep. Clare Booth Luce; Kenneth P. Littauer, an editor of Collier's Magazine, and many another veteran of the recent war.

Alton said all the volunteers were put on the company pay roll. Those that don't collect their wages, he said, can be assured that the money will be used to install "extras" in the barracks.

Westport women pitched in, too. The Women's Club served a picnic lunch both days, and the Garden Club announced that its members will landscape the grounds when the men complete their work.

Alton said the buildings will be ready for occupancy November 1.

Article Describes Ulster County Fair

An account of the recent Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day, written by Miss Sophie Miller of Kingston, appears in the September issue of the Rural New Yorker. It features the picture, taken by Ken Roosa, Freeman photographer, of the 500-pound Aberdeen-Angus baby beef steer shown by Charles Relyea, Jr., of Hurley, and which later won third place at the Dutchess county fair.

Miss Miller is reminded that in 1882 the legislature passed a bill providing for weekly market fairs in Kingston, and suspects that doubtless these led to the three-day fairs in the spring and in the late fall, finally evolving into the annual Ulster County Fair.

It is suggested that it would be desirable to give a large section of the fair space to display of antiques, historical items of the old Dutch days, examples of Woodstock and Ellenville glass, Indian relics and the like.

Kunst Clothing Firm Now in Own Building

The downtown clothing firm of A. Kunst & Son is now doing business at its new location, 23 Broadway, having completed removal of stock from its former business address, 36 Broadway in the Krayen building.

Renovations were completed last week to the present Kunst store, which was purchased by Mrs. Ida Kunst some time ago. The Kunst firm did business at its former address for 18 years.

Occupying the same building as the clothing business now is the Manos grocery store.

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration announced yesterday that representatives of 62 nations have been invited to witness demonstrations of U. S. radio aids to air navigation at New York and Indianapolis, Ind., from October 7 to 27.

The demonstrations will start on October 7 in the New York area, where delegates will visit the C.A.A. overseas communications stations at Sayville, L. I., and the air traffic control and other operations at LaGuardia Field. From October 10 to 23 the delegates will visit the C.A.A. experimental station in Indianapolis, and then return to New York city for the final demonstrations at the air-borne instrument laboratory, Minnola, N. Y., and at various Coast Guard "Joran" installations.

Weather Drops Market

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—Market prices on some fresh fruits and vegetables have tumbled because of abundant production caused by the warmth of the last two weeks of September, the State Department of Agriculture said today.

Corn, cauliflower, peaches and early apples suddenly became plentiful in New York. There has been a high yield of potatoes because of favorable conditions through the growing season, the department reported.

Safe Is Stolen

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—A 500-pound safe, said to contain approximately $4,000, the week-end receipts, was stolen this morning from the Howard Johnson restaurant, 2560 Bruckner Boulevard, the Bronx, police of the Barkley avenue station reported. Police said the safe was first pushed down a flight of stairs from the second to the first floor of the restaurant building, causing considerable damage to the stairway. The burglary was discovered at about 8 a. m. Investigation, police said, disclosed the burglars climbed a fire escape to enter by a second-floor window.

Rent Controls Ordered

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—O.P.A. today ordered rent controls established in 17 new areas in 13 states. The agency said the rent ceilings are being imposed for the first time, effective tomorrow, because the "housing shortage and pressures on rent had become acute in all of the new areas."

The states are Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—Market prices on some fresh fruits and vegetables have tumbled because of abundant production caused by the warmth of the last two weeks of September, the State Department of Agriculture said today.

Two Bills Await Action On Housing for Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 30 (AP)—Two widely varying bills to provide emergency housing for veterans await action today by a special session of the New Jersey Legislature.

A five bill program proposed and backed by Alfred E. Driscoll, G.O.P. candidate for governor, was to be introduced by Assembly Majority Leader Leon Leonard (R-Atlantic) and Senate Majority Leader Charles K. Barton (R-Pasaden). It calls for an immediate appropriation of $6,000,000 and a bond issue of $35,000,000.

The executive board of the New Jersey Federation of Labor has urged the Legislature to abandon this program and adopt one suggested earlier by Gov. Walter E. Edge which called for a $100,000,000 bond issue to be financed by a sales tax on cigarettes.

Minority Leader Bernard M. Vogel (D-Middlesex) was to present a program following in many respects one outlined by the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Lewis G. Hansen. It calls for a $45,000,000 appropriation of state funds for the installation of temporary housing and expansion of existing dwelling units.

Vogel said yesterday the Hansen program which he would present does not stipulate how the funds shall be raised but requires that they shall be appropriated to a veterans housing commissioner who is to be a veteran of World War 2 appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Corn, cauliflower, peaches and early apples suddenly became plentiful in New York. There has been a high yield of potatoes because of favorable conditions through the growing season, the department reported.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Stocks generally continued to retreat in today's market although little if any urged liquidation appeared.

Steels led an early decline with activity slackening. While a few "thin" issues dipped as much as 6 points, most recessions ranged from fractions to 3. Extreme setbacks were trimmed here and there near the fourth hour with the ticker tape loafing.

Commission houses discerned further mild profit cashing on last week's recovery. A certain amount of selling, it was said, came from those who were bearish over labor disputes, foreign affairs, business prospects and price controls. Other customers were believed to have stood aside to await a possible secondary reaction. Bidding for favorable yields of investment stocks served to cushion the decline.

Johns-Manville and U.S. Gypsum, down about 6 each at one time, cut their losses. Lesser stumbles were suffered by Bethlehem, U.S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Railway, American Smelting, U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, International Harvester, Hiram Walker, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, du Pont and Dow Chemical.

Bonds yielded ground and commodities were mixed.

Other decorations include the Good Conduct medal, American Defense and the American Theatre ribbons. He is assigned to the base motor pool.

Woman Suffers Shock In Auto Collision

Agnes Garneau, 40, of 20-44 East 55th street, Brooklyn, suffered shock Sunday when the car of Gertrude Clear, also of Brooklyn, in which she was riding was in collision with the car of Emanuel Kittner of Yorkville, driven by Edward Henry Kittner.

The accident happened about 10 o'clock Sunday morning and was investigated by Corporal William Martin of the High Road State Police station. The Clear car was proceeding west over Route 209, near Stone Ridge, when it attempted to turn to the Mill Road and was struck by the Kittner car, Corporal Martin said.

Little Silver, N. J., Sept. 30 (AP)—Sgt. Glynn F. Kimmey is still waiting and praying for word of his wife, Mary, 26, who was kidnapped from their bed here Friday morning by a man identified by the F.B.I. as Chalmers H. Laubaugh, a paroled ex-convict and a former suitor of the woman.

"I only wish I could get a message to her," Kimmey, 28, said. "I'd like to see her up, because it must be awful for her."

He said he and his wife had never discussed details of her relationship with Laubaugh and he "didn't even know what he looked like but when he broke in and pointed a gun at us, I knew who it was. Mary screamed terribly. I know she was terrified of him."

Meanwhile an 11-state search went on for the fourth day for Mrs. Kimmey and her abductor, who, the F.B.I. said, forced her at

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 30, 1946

A. B. C.

National Newspaper Week will be observed beginning tomorrow and the Audit Bureau of circulation calls attention to an operation of self-regulation in industry that is an outstanding example of the American way of life in business.

The Freeman is affiliated with this association, which comprises 2,900 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Working together and without outside interference, these sellers and buyers of advertising space have voluntarily set up rules and standards for use in measuring and evaluating the circulation of published media.

The Audit Bureau, better known as A.B.C., maintains a large staff of experienced circulation auditors who examine and audit the circulation records of all publisher members at regular intervals. The results of these audits are issued in A.B.C. reports which are available to advertisers and publishers for use in the buying and selling of advertising space. These reports tell how much net paid circulation a publication has, how it was obtained, the price or prices at which it was sold, how and where distributed and many other facts essential to the sound investment of advertising money. Thus, with the aid of A.B.C. reports, advertisers can select the media best adapted to their needs, invest their money on the basis of facts and know just what they get for their advertising dollars. This is a far cry from conditions that existed prior to 1914, the year A.B.C. was established, when advertisers had no uniform standards for the comparison and evaluation of media and when publishers were unable to get full credit for their circulation claims.

Today ninety-four per cent of the total circulation of all daily newspapers in the United States and ninety-eight per cent in Canada is audited by A.B.C. In addition to newspapers the Bureau's publisher membership includes most of the leading magazines, business papers and farm publications in the United States and Canada.

Through the use of A.B.C. reports advertisers select media on the basis of facts obtained through actual audits. It is probable that without the protection for advertising made possible by the use of A.B.C. reports, advertisers would not have appropriated the large sums for advertising which now characterize American economy. The Audit Bureau therefore by its participation in the development of advertising and the welfare of the press is an integral part in the public service performed by the newspapers of America.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

In proclaiming Fire Prevention Week, to be observed beginning October 6 this year, President Truman said: "Whereas fires threaten this year to exact the greatest toll of lives and the greatest waste of material resources that our nation has ever experienced; and

"Whereas this destruction is taking place at a time when the entire world is faced with distressing shortages of food and housing and nearly every commodity essential to speedy reconversion to a peacetime economy; and

"Whereas the vast majority of destructive fires are preventable by the exercise of greater caution on the part of all our citizens . . .

"I ask every citizen to do his part by learning how to detect and eliminate all possible causes of fires in his home and in his business . . . Mr. Truman then requested that labor and local governments, business and labor organizations, churches, schools, the press, radio, and motion-picture industry and other such groups also cooperate "in arousing the public to the awareness of the dread threat of fires."

The President has pointed to a terrible danger and an immediate need for action. Some 11,000 Americans will die one of the most horrible of deaths this year unless fire's

'These Days'

DO-GOODER'S DELIGHT

I always figured that Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming was an unadulterated do-gooder who was invariably devoted to the cause of the common man. He seems to have been the spearhead of so many New Deal operations that I have had the impression that he was second only to Henry Wallace in doing good. That is, I thought so until I got interested in conservation. Up in western Massachusetts, where I have a farm, we have some of the most beautiful forest land in eastern United States, but the state of Massachusetts does a niggardly job of conservation. It seems to be very stingy about caring for the gifts which God gave it. The state forests are hardly provided for; their roads are badly kept; their camping and fishing facilities are practically unusable for the thousands of people who come to that country every year during the Summer for the Berkshire music festival, during the Winter for skiing.

I said to myself that it must be better out West until I got looking into the business of Senator O'Mahoney and the Great Teton Park and its Jackson Hole surroundings. I have never been to Teton Park but I am told that it is scenically one of the most inspiring mountain regions in the United States and that it affords magnificent recreation grounds, with good fishing and camping opportunities. Just south of Yellowstone, it is on the trail of about 750,000 Americans—the common people—who love the woods and mountains and, hitching their hopes to a jalopy, seek the great outdoors.

So back in the dark days of the wicked Republicans, Teton Mountain was made into a national park with some 100,000 acres. Cattlemen and their Senators fought this, and compromises had to be made to get the plan through at all. Then John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was interested in the project and, with his deep and abiding affection for his country and his fine concept of constructive charity, he bought about $1,500,000 of the private lands in this area with the object of presenting it to the American government as part of a national park. This was in 1928, and the land is still not in the possession of the American government because Wyoming politicians, including Senator O'Mahoney, have fought its acceptance on various grounds, among them being that the shopkeepers of Jackson Hole suspect that should be the national park be fully developed, tourists would spend their money in the park rather than in the hole. Harold Ickes, when he was Secretary of the Interior, got into this fight by declaring about 220,000 acres of this land a "national monument," which he had a right to do—and a good deal it was. This action of Ickes was fought in the courts where the focus of conservation was defeated. Since then, Senator O'Mahoney has inserted riders in appropriation bills which make it impossible to administer, protect or maintain this area as a national monument. On this point, the Senator has to choose between predatory constituents and the Common Man—who, not living in Wyoming, has no vote there.

Now, if you have followed Senator O'Mahoney's career, he has not been too strong for private ownership generally. Yet, he made this speech once concerning the Jackson Hole Section of Wyoming which includes this park:

" . . . I desire to make a record here this afternoon of what I regard to be a rather extraordinary instance of the indirect use of Executive power to accomplish an objective which could not be accomplished by legislative action. . . .

This was in opposition to Ickes establishing this area into a national monument. Then he added:

" . . . the normal attitude of the people of Wyoming, as of all the people of all the Western States, is that they prefer to have the land owned by the Government within the boundaries of the State to pass as rapidly as possible into private ownership. Their purpose and desire is to make certain, if possible, that the land shall be used for productive purposes. . . .

I cite this as an example of how to do good with other people's property while carefully avoiding doing good with the property of one's own constituency. (Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MIGRAINE

I write frequently about migraine, because while the cause is unknown, the two methods of treatment most used, (a) ergotamine tartrate and (b) inhaling oxygen, give relief in most cases, research workers are finding that other methods of treatment help many cases and this treatment is more easily taken. Thus a few weeks ago I spoke of the treatment by prostigmin bromide as suggested by Dr. J. J. Patton, Montreal, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal. In the same number of the Journal, Dr. Clifford B. Smith, also of Montreal, wrote of the role of riboflavin (part of vitamin B) in migraine. Dr. Smith points out that several years ago, research workers found that burning sensations in the eyes, inflammation of eyelids, excessive flow of tears and falling sight were relieved by the use of riboflavin, and that symptoms immediately returned when riboflavin was stopped. Another group of workers discovered that many cases of eye fatigue in flyers — tiredness of eyes, aching eyes, watering of eyes, sandy sensation under lids, dizziness, headaches, inability to read for any length of time, and decreased vision — were relieved by riboflavin.

With the above facts in mind Dr. Smith treated 19 individuals suffering with migraine under observation from several months to two and one-half years. There were 15 females and 4 males. Four were of the ophthalmic (eye) type and the other 15 had the usual migraine symptoms — one sided headaches, dizziness, nausea and vomiting.

"Every case reported a marked improvement in general well being. The four eye cases were relieved of all attacks. Ten of the simple migraines were a complete cure, while three of the remainder were markedly improved — attacks less severe, and fewer of them.

All cases were given 5 mgm. riboflavin three times a day; this to be continued for several months' time, after which the dose was regulated according to the individual's requirements.

The fact that lack of riboflavin may be a cause or partial cause of migraine is worth knowing. Foods rich in riboflavin are whole grains, liver, cereals, nuts.

Those Were Wild Times, Son

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By ROBERT EUNSON
(For Hal Boyle)

Paris, (AP)—European monuments to American soldier dead of World War 2 will include a memorial highway 600 miles long from St. Mere Eglise in Normandy to Metz, tracing the victorious path of the U. S. Third Army led by the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.

Mrs. Patton, whose husband is buried in one of the 36 American cemeteries in Europe, is honorary chairman of the "Liberty Highway" commission. President Georges Bidault of France and U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery are patrons. Vice chairman are the mayors of St. Mere Eglise, St. Lo, Avranches, St. Malo, Rennes, Angers, Le Mans, Chartres, Fontainebleau, Reims, Verdun and Metz.

600 Torches Burn
Major G. de la Vasselais, former Third Army liaison officer and mayor of St. Symphorien, the guiding hand behind the project, was present in August when the first of 600 torches to mark the miles along the way was ignited to dedicate officially the "Liberty Highway" to the memory of the Third Army.

Under Patton the U. S. Third Army penetrated Europe deeper than any other army on the Western Front. After breaking through at St. Lo with the U. S. 35th and 29th Infantry Divisions and the Fourth Armored in the vanguard most of the way, the Third Army crossed six international borders and was in Czechoslovakia when the Nazis quit.

There has been some misunderstanding and not a little feeling between the French city of Metz and the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg regarding the final official resting place of General Patton's body.

Since his death last winter, following an auto accident in Germany, the mayor of Metz has requested removal of Patton's body from the cemetery in Luxembourg to Metz, where it would rest at the foot of a memorial at the end of "Liberty Highway."

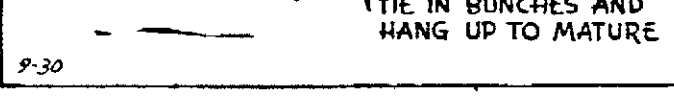

Since Luxembourg was once General Patton's headquarters and units of the Third Army liberated the Grand Duchy, the people of Luxembourg are not a little jealous of their trust and refused to listen to the demands from Metz.

Care for Graves
Grand Duchesses Charlotte and members of the royal family have taken personal charge of the general's grave. Each of the more than 10,000 other soldiers' graves in Luxembourg have been adopted by a family charged with seeing that the grave is properly cared for and decorated on holidays.

Dehydration May Go
South Africa's dehydration industry, which flourished in wartime while supplying dehydrated vegetables and soup mixture to the Navy, is threatened with extinction. Orders have ceased abruptly and most factories have closed. An industry suggestion that the Union plan a national bank of concentrated foods did not meet with adoption. It was suggested that they be distributed by welfare agencies as need for them arose.

Mines laid by Nazi submarines closed the entrance to New York harbor for a 30-hour period in November, 1942.

Winter Storage of Gladiolus Bulbs

By DEAN HALUDAY
Released by Central Press Association

WHEN gladiolus foliage begins to lose color and die down, the corms are mature and ready to be dug. Loosen the soil with a spading fork, then lift out the corms and cormels which have formed about the parent corm.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph cut off the tops to within a few inches of the corm. Dry the corms in the sun. Then clean off the soil, break off old, withered corm, and remove the cormels. The large corms may be stored loosely in shallow boxes. The cormels should be stored in boxes of dry sand. A proper storage place should be dry, fairly cool, but frost proof (40-50 degrees).

Since the original corms get weak and thin after several years, the young cormlets should be saved to insure a fresh, new supply continually coming along. Late planted corms should be dug before frost, even though not mature. Leave the stalks attached to these, and hang, as illustrated, in an airy, frost-proof place until matured. Then cut away the stalks and store the bulbs. Label them carefully.

It is best to make periodic inspection of corms in storage and, if an occasional corm is found to be diseased, it should be discarded.

Gladiolus thrives winter over on the corms. They can be destroyed by pulling the corms in tight paper bags or boxes and adding one ounce of naphthalene flakes to each one hundred corms. Leave for about a month.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The first step taken to consolidate the school system in Kingston was on February 5, 1902, when Assemblyman Robert A. Snyder introduced a bill in the state assembly providing for an amendment to the city's charter.

The proposed bill named the following men to serve as the members of the first board of education under the proposed consolidation: Bernard Loughran, W. Scott Gillespie, Conrad Hiltbrand, Isaac N. Weiner, Harry R. Brigham, Henry C. Connelly, Walter C. Dolson, DuBois G. Atkins and Judge Walter N. Gill.

When the bill was first proposed it was objected to strongly by the Kingston education board.

The bill provided that the new board was empowered to appoint all school officials, including a city superintendent of schools, whose compensation was to be determined by the board.

And while the subject of schools the resignation of Henry Powers as principal of School No. 3, where he had served for a number of years, became effective on January 27, 1902.

Principal John D. Murphy of School No. 13, was named to succeed Mr. Powers at School No. 3, while Patrick J. Cahill of this city, was named principal of School No. 13.

Mr. Cahill was a graduate of old Kingston Academy of the class of 1896. He had several years experience in teaching before he assumed his duties as principal of School No. 13.

Turning from schools to business affairs it was in January, 1902, that the late C. B. Bevier was appointed manager of the Laycock drug store on lower Broadway.

Mr. Bevier, who died a number of years ago, was a widely known druggist, and in later years was employed by the Connelly Drug Co. At the time of his death he made his home on McEntee street.

An old clipping of November 3, 1901, reads that the shirt factory of James Fuller was removed from New York city to Kingston, and had begun operations that month in the Lawton building on Prince street.

The clipping said that the concern planned to place 250 people at work when in full operation. In later years the factory was removed to its present location on Pine Grove avenue.

Among the musical notes of 1901, was one regarding the appointment of George H. Muller of Kingston as leader of the Kingston Opera House orchestra in October of that year.

Mr. Muller for years was active in the musical life of the city, and was not only leader of the orchestra at the old opera house, but at one time had one of the finest bands in the city.

Older readers will recall Prof. Muller. He had a heavy shock of dark hair, which he liked to wear long, drooping over his coat collar.

The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis of Northport, L. I., was called to the pastorate of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and preached his first sermon as pastor-elect on November 24, 1901. Dr. Ellis was installed as pastor on January 2, 1902, and served the downtown church for a period of 30 years before he retired, and made his home in Margaretville. He died at Margaretville some years ago.

Film Must Be Noble
Don Francisco Ortiz Munoz, who handles Spain's film censorship in Madrid, explained his theory of censorship: "There is nothing wrong in the cinema's dealing with crude and difficult human problems — hate, vengeance, jealousy, unfaithfulness; that is to say, in treating the great passions of life. But this must be on three conditions: namely, that the intention of the film is a noble one, that it is decently portrayed, and that the end of the film is of a morally inspiring character."

How Can Democracies Stop External War When They Can't Prevent Internal Strife—Wagner Law Blamed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 30 — Once democracies haven't seemed to discover a way to prevent internal war, it may well be wondered how they can ever stop external war.

Not only in the United States but in Britain, Canada and elsewhere the economic power of labor and management is such that disputes are being settled only through wars of exhaustion. In America even physical force is occasionally used. The newspapers nowadays print illustrations of virtual anarchy where courts or police departments are either too timid or too indifferent to prevent violence in picketing.

Economic anarchy has grown considerably since the passage of the Wagner Labor Relations Law in 1935. In the eleven years prior to the enactment of the Wagner Law, there were 11,830 strikes. In the 11 years since the law was passed, there have been 38,521 strikes.

The Wagner Law is responsible for the breaking down the relations between management and its employees. It has erected such artificial barriers as to make impossible in many instances the maintenance of friendly and cordial relations. The negotiation of contracts has usually been attended by an atmosphere of hostility which leaves many traces of real bitterness when one or the other side is compelled to yield to superior economic power.

This bitterness would not be present if management and employees could talk frankly to one another. Under the Wagner Law communication must be confined strictly to committees chosen by the unions and oftentimes these committees comprise officers who are engaged in internal politics, so that the rank and file do not really know what is going on and often are given a misrepresentation of the employer's real attitude.

The Wagner Act is in dire need of amendment. To mention it, however, is to bring condemnation at once from labor groups. Yet the late President Roosevelt, as recently as the spring of 1938, said he believed the Wagner Act should be amended in several particulars. It was at an interview with the American Society of Newspaper Editors but it was off-the-record at the time. The interview was published in the Roosevelt public papers in December 1941.

It was a sad day for America when President Truman played politics with the labor problem. Under effective leadership in the White House, legislation could have been enacted this year to prevent strikes in industries involving public utilities or services essential to the public health and safety. A system of compulsory arbitration in such industries is imperative and would have had public support. The right of economic groups to damage the public interest is neither unqualified nor unlimited. But it takes statesmanship to cure internal war, and that unhappily is lacking today. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

What Mr. Roosevelt really was saying was that a law as important as the Wagner Act should be improved by evolutionary experience. Anyone who is disinterested and knows the real workings of the act will concede that it needs amendment. But the labor leaders have lobbied successfully and blocked such action in Congress. In the single instance in 11 years that amendments to the Wagner Act were passed by both houses of Congress, President Truman vetoed the measure and used as a pretext the very language offered as objections by the union leaders.

Vets of Two Wars Behind Byrnes' Foreign Policy

G.I.'s in Legion Start Move to Take Over Organization at Convention

San Francisco, Sept. 30 (AP)—Strongly-worded foreign policy declarations were in the making today at the American Legion national convention as the powerful veterans' organization tackled serious matters after a festive night touched off by a noisy parade up Market street.

At the same time, a determined struggle for control of the Legion was shaping up, with World War 2 veterans openly demanding much greater representation and voice in the organization's affairs.

Militant leaders of the World

War 2 factions, which contends 63 percent of all Legion members are veterans of the recently-ended conflict, met in a "rump" session last night to consider means of wresting more power from the entrenched World War 1 group.

World War 2 vets argue that they are represented by only 20 percent of the delegates to this convention and have almost no voice in the higher levels. They have little hope, however, of accomplishing much at this convention, except to make their protest heard and prepare for a more effective battle at the 1947 convention.

As for foreign policy, a matter of obviously deep concern to the entire Legion, it was firmly indicated that veterans of both wars probably will see eye-to-eye. The Legion's executive committee adopted a resolution unequivocally supporting Secretary of State Byrnes' foreign policy and, at the World War 2 veterans' "rump" session they, too, backed Byrnes.

The executive committee resolution called for absolutely fair treatment of and cooperation with all nations "that reciprocally deserve it" but, at the same time, scorned "appeasement or peace at any price."

charge of their responsibilities in the occupied areas of Europe. "Second, to protect U. S. interests and to support U. S. policies in the area."

Previous Comments

In the last year or so official comments on the presence of American warships in the Mediterranean have been generally confined either to explaining specific missions in terms of good will trips or errands of mercy, or to showing that naval operations were helping the United States carry out its occupation problems.

Yet the Mediterranean is one of the world's most strategic areas. There conflicting interests of the British empire and Russian expansionism aims come into sharp focus. There, too, the United States itself is concerned with oil and global strategy.

Hence it has been generally taken for granted here, despite the absence of previous official assertions, that the navy has been serving U. S. foreign policy all along.

Thus at a previous time of crisis in Turkey, the Battleship Missouri was used to return the body of a long dead ambassador. Then the Carrier F.D.R. was sent on a tour of the Mediterranean in time to call at a Greek port on election eve. And the presence of a United States cruiser with destroyer escort added emphasis to Secretary of State Byrnes' insistence at Paris on a Trieste settlement not to Yugoslavia's liking.

The Forrestal statement today said that at present this country has in European waters, mostly in the Mediterranean, a division of cruisers, a squadron of destroyers, and the necessary sustaining vessels of auxiliary types.

Sullivan said that last year about one out of every 15 non-local letters traveled by air. A year from now he expects the ratio to be one of every three.

large measure for the miseries and suffering that have fallen on millions of men, women and children."

"They have been a disgrace to the honorable profession of arms," the ruling continued. "Without their military guidance, the aggressive ambitions of Hitler and his fellow Nazis would have been academic and sterile."

"Although they were not a group falling within the words of the charter, they were certainly a ruthless military caste. The contemporary German militarism flourished briefly with its recent ally, National Socialism, as well as or better than it had in the generations of the past."

Evidence of criminality "against many members of the general staff and high command as individuals is clear and convincing," the verdict said, but the court was unable to find that the military as such came under the terms of the charter setting up the trials.

A similar attitude was taken toward the Hitler Jugend (Youth), which was not referred to in the verdict except to show the culpability of Baldur von Schirach, who built it up.

In absolving the cabinet, the tribunal said that in the dictatorial Hitler setup it was impotent after 1937.

The court stressed that nothing it said about the organizations absolved any individual members of liability to prosecution on their own account.

Will Plan for Supper

A regular meeting of the Men's Club of the Fair Street Church will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Bruhn Will Ask Speedy Grand Jury Action for Soldier said, did not indicate whether such counsel would be furnished by the Army or by a group of his soldier friends at the point.

'Sub-Normal Background'

District Attorney Bruhn said that the questioning of McAlister uncovered a sub-normal family background. McAlister was born in Williamstown, N. C., and his mother died when he was a baby. His father later remarried and McAlister was raised with several stepbrothers.

McAlister enlisted in the Army six years ago at the age of 18 and served at Fort Benning, Ga., in the infantry before he was assigned to West Point in 1941. He has been there ever since.

The district attorney said that under questioning McAlister testified that he had never been arrested. He said he had no record other than that of a member of the War. District Attorney Bruhn said his office was awaiting a report on McAlister's finger prints from the F.B.I. and B.S.I. division of the State Police.

McAlister is a member of the U. S. Infantry Detachment at West Point. According to police, he was born on October 14, 1922. He is five feet 9 inches tall and weighs 164 pounds.

Have Child, 3 Years

Mrs. McAlister, who resides with her father, Sergeant James Wood, of West Point, at 73 Brewster street, Kingston, is a granddaughter of the late Irving Wood, once well known as a local musician. Mr. and Mrs. McAlister have a three-year old child living with his grandparents here.

According to information gathered by the police and district attorney, the incidents leading to the murder of Warden date back about five months, when Mrs. McAlister and Warden became friendly in a Newburgh restaurant where they were employed.

McAlister said he became aware of his wife's friendship with Warden on September 24, although he said he felt they were drifting apart long before that. He said he came to Kingston Friday night to talk over the matter with his wife but did not find her home when he arrived. He was told that she was expected shortly. The police say that McAlister admitted going to the Bongartz Pharmacy at 358 Broadway where he purchased a jackknife and returned to the Brewster street residence to await his wife's return.

Drove to Cemetery

McAlister said he saw Warden's car coming down the street and hailed it. Mrs. McAlister was riding with Warden at the time. He got into the car and the trio drove to Montrose cemetery where they parked and had a lengthy discussion about the "triangle" affair. McAlister said the argument was exclusively but admitted that his wife said she wanted a divorce.

After the conversation at Montrose cemetery, the trio went to a Broadway tavern for a few drinks and then returned to the Brewster street residence. Mrs. McAlister got out and went into the house, leaving Sergeant McAlister and Warden in the car, apparently under the impression that the question had been settled amicably and that Warden would drive McAlister back to West Point where he was scheduled to report for duty Saturday morning.

The wife had no sooner entered the house, the police said, when McAlister drew the jackknife from his pocket and plunged the blade into Warden's chest as the latter sat behind the wheel of the auto.

Warden's death came under macabre circumstances, the police said, for every time he drove the knife into Warden's chest his arm came in contact with the car's horn causing it to blow loudly. Police estimated that McAlister had plunged the knife into Warden's chest at least 10 times.

McAlister then got out of the car, went upstairs and told Mrs. McAlister's father, Sergeant James Wood, that he stabbed Warden. The police were called and Conner's ambulance was summoned. Warden died en route to a hospital.

Following an autopsy on the body of Fred Warden by Dr. J. S. Taylor and Dr. Douw S. Meyers, it was turned over to a Cornwall undertaker where the funeral and burial will take place on Tuesday.

The dead man was originally from Cornwall-on-Hudson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Warden. His mother died violently, ending her life several years ago with a shotgun, according to the Newburgh News.

Warden was discharged from the army last January, where he had served as a cook attached to an ordnance unit. He had been reported employed recently at the New York Military Academy for a short time.

About five years ago Warden worked at P. J.'s Restaurant, Broadway in Newburgh, where Mrs. McAlister was employed as a waitress.

Warden had been rooming with his father at 191 Prospect street in Newburgh up until several weeks ago, when he moved to Cornwall for a week. About three weeks ago, he took up residence at Highland Mills.

Besides his father the murdered man is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Thiell, of 31 City Terrace, Newburgh, and a nun in a Woodbury, N. J., convent.

McAlister's Army Record Tech. Sgt. James McAlister, 24, who is being held in the Ulster county jail on a charge of murder in the first degree in the stabbing of Warden, has a good record in the army. According to West Point Military officers who came to Kingston Saturday to confer with Chief of Police Ernest A. Boss, he first enlisted in the service in 1940.

At the time of his arrest here he

That they were assigned to their tasks by a dictator does not absolve them from their responsibility for their acts."

Evidence Described

In discussing the four main counts, the tribunal described evidence against the individual defendants as "quite overwhelming."

Herman Goering and his 20 colleagues (Martin Bormann was tried in absentia) sat grim and silent as the court unfolded the long opinion, which is to be climaxed tomorrow by formal judgments against the surviving leaders of the Nazi regime and the sentencing.

Despite its acquittal of the three Nazi organizations, the tribunal warned that members of those groups still could be prosecuted for individual war crimes, and added that the evidence against some members of the high command and general staff was "clear and convincing."

Prosecution of the high command has been one of the most controversial points in the indictment.

A packed courtroom watched the defendants file in singly. Most of them were smiling when they entered, but soon lost their grins as Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence of Great Britain, president of the tribunal, began reading the judgment.

Close to 100,000 words in the judgment was expected to occupy the court well into tomorrow, after which the defendants will be called in one by one to hear their fate.

All the defendants leaned forward listening intently, except Rudolf Hess, who sat without earphones and appeared to be writing something.

Turns Are Taken

The justices, representing Britain, France, Russia and the United States, took turns reading the summary and reviewed the evidence presented during the long trial step by step.

"To initiate war is not only an international crime, it is the supreme crime," the court declared.

This was the basis of the court's findings, which included rulings that not one, but many conspiracies had been committed to wage war and that in waging war, crimes against humanity and war crimes had been committed.

Of the four counts in the indictment only the first—that of having conspired in a common plan or conspiracy to commit the crimes—remains to be proved against all the defendants. The other counts charged crimes against peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity.

In dealing with defense contentions by Goering and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder that they did not believe Hitler meant to resort to war, the tribunal said:

"But all that this means when examined is the belief that Germany's position would be so good and Germany's might so overwhelming that the territory desired could be obtained without fighting for it."

Says He Would Appeal

Dr. Alfred Thoma, defense counsel for Alfred Rosenberg, who was the Nazi party's official philosopher, declared during a morning recess that he would appeal any sentence of his client to the Allied Control Council and added that if Rosenberg were sentenced to death he would ask that he be shot, instead of hanged or beheaded.

Dealing with a defense contention that some of the defendants had only carried out orders, the tribunal ruled: "A defense of 'superior orders' has never been recognized as a defense to crime as the charter here provides."

The judgment reviewed the acts of aggression and time after time quoted the minutes of Hitler's secret conferences planning war to show that the Nazi's intentions were clear from the start.

The tribunal said that in "Mein Kampf," Hitler made his views "quite plain" and that this was no "private diary" but was known in Germany.

The justices held that the campaigns against Poland, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, Greece and Russia were "aggressive war."

In discussing the two counts of the indictment relating to crimes against humanity and war crimes, the tribunal listed acts after acts and said again: "The evidence was quite overwhelming of a systematic rule of violence, brutality and terror."

In dealing with the extermination of Jews, the tribunal cited estimates of 6,000,000 killed under Hitler's program and said the hair of the women victims was cut off before they were killed to be used in the production of mattresses.

Sent to Agencies

The clothes, money and valuables of victims were sent to appropriate agencies for disposition, the judgment said, and gold teeth and fillings were taken from the heads of the corpses and sent to the Reichsbank.

After cremation, the court continued, the ashes were used for fertilizer and in some instances attempts were made to utilize the fat from the bodies of victims for the commercial manufacture of soap.

During the morning recess, was attached to the U. S. Army detachment at West Point.

McAlister married Florence Wood, daughter of Sergeant James Wood of Brewster street, in 1942.

Goering recovered his good humor and laughed at something while talking with Raeder and Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's foreign minister.

Hjalmar Schacht, former German economics minister and Reichsbank president, who has continually claimed he has been "persecuted," stood alone from all the other defendants, wearing a hurt look.

One optimist in the courtroom was the attorney for Franz von Papen, longtime German diplomat, who expressed the view that his client would be freed.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, ex-chief of the German high command, was convinced he would be judged guilty and has asked his counsel to appeal to the Allied Control Council that he be shot instead of hanged if his sentence is death.

In general, the defendants were much better dressed than when the trial recessed early this summer and it was believed their wives had brought additional clothing to them during recent visits.

Plane Will Take Off From Shanghai

Shanghai, Sept. 30 (AP)—A special plane loaded with money and supplies to ransom and care for five American fliers believed held as slaves of wild Lolo tribesmen will take off Wednesday for Chengtu, on the border of the far western China wilderness.

Members of a U. S. Graves Registration team said the plane will carry a jeep, Chinese currency, silver, medical supplies, food and medical personnel. The party will go to Sichang, in the rugged country near the Tibet and Burma borders, to establish an operating base. Another plane will be held ready to go in as soon as the men are located.

The spirit of Daniel Boone moves in the dancing shadows cast by every camp fire. For Don't could outtrail, outshoot, and outfight any man of his day. And such a character never dies. Thomas Carstairs, too, stood out. In 1788, this architect and designer turned his talent to the purveying of fine liquors. The most famous descendant of those fine liquors is "Carstairs EST. 1788." It is, today, America's proudest whiskey.

Brown Is Opening Speaker At American Press Institute; Cites Editors' Responsibility

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Free and unlimited association of ideas and information is the only way to the truth that leads to every great achievement, Sevellon Brown, editor and publisher of the Providence Journal-Bulletin, said today at the opening of the American Press Institute.

Twenty-five managing editors and news editors of newspapers from coast to coast enrolled for the Institute's first seminar at Columbia University. They will exchange ideas on covering news and discuss social, economic and political problems of the day.

"We know that every great human achievement, spiritual or material, is the result of the free, uninhibited collaboration of many minds," Brown, who originated the idea for founding the Institute and is a member of its advisory committee, said in his prepared address.

But the task of full disclosure, in this headlong flow of complex events, is enormous. We must guard vigilantly against incomplete and misleading reports. This swift flood stream of news may motivate social, political and economic action of incalculable consequences; action which may bring war or peace, prosperity or depression, weal or woe. Yet we cannot withhold the news. It is not our duty to withhold the news from the public only what we deem to be "safe" or "good" for it to know. In a democracy, such power cannot be delegated to any group; it is the first step towards tyranny and stagnation.

He said the day was past when events considered news were primarily those involving novelty, shock, violence or conflict.

"We are engaged in writing, editing and interpreting news reports from direct contacts in remote parts of the earth, reports that must cope with the enigmas of Soviet Russia, with the mysteries of India, with the contradictions of revolutionary China," he said. "Moreover the news is compounded of the facts and speculations of science, of the dogmas of religious belief, of all the social, economic and political concerns of mankind."

Brown said that the American Press Institute was "more an idea than an institution" and that the success of this two-year experiment underwritten by 38 newspaper publishers could help all newspapermen in "the fulfillment of as heavy a social responsibility as rests upon the shoulders of any professional group of men in these United States."

The nation's first "drive-in" filling station was opened in St. Louis, Mo., in 1905.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Unknown Hero
New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Joseph Tasso dropped his one-year-old son, Jame, about 12 feet from a front window of his apartment into the arms of a passing stranger yesterday, then turned and extinguished flames that had enveloped his wife's clothing when cleaning fluid ignited.

The boy was returned unharmed, but when Tasso tried to express his thanks to the "baby catcher," he stranger had modestly departed.

Cupid Goes Farming
Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—Cupid boy mouth makeup is passing.

Deafened People May Now Hear Clearly

Scieno has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music, and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, cap or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 2258, 150 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.

and the proper style now is the "watermelon" or wide mouth type, a fashion coordinator says.

Gail of New York told a local beauty trade show audience yesterday that "the cupid bow is definitely out of the picture this season. The correct mouth makeup calls for the watermelon, or wide mouth type."

Capitol Cavern
Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—There's a new dance spot—the Truman bouncer.

James F. Murray, Jr., Albany dancing instructor who devised the new step, described it as a fast fox-trot with just a dash of jitterbug.

And, says Murray, it can't be danced to the Missouri Waltz—"There's not enough bounce."

Crated After Delivery
Missoula, Mont., Sept. 30 (AP)—Apple boxes and peach crates solved a shortage of living quarters at St. Patrick's Hospital.

The hospital has facilities designed for only 12 new born babies but 38 infants arrived during the past few days. Boxes and crates solved the problem. They were rigged up as cribs.

Gang Kills Soldier In Philippine Raid

Manila, Sept. 30 (AP)—An unidentified gang using machineguns killed one American soldier and wounded another today in an attack on Fort McKinley. U. S. Army authorities said the incident was being investigated.

One group of armed men fired on a jeep patrol on the eastern side of the U. S. Army reservation in Manila's southern suburbs. The patrol returned the fire and asked reinforcements.

Aid was sent from the west gate guard, and this enabled a second group to penetrate west gate quarters.

CAMP CAR—English campers relax beside an old railroad passenger car which was equipped with living accommodations and sidetracked in a secluded rural district.

Young to Appear Before Court in Ballot Venue

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—An order directing the Democratic candidate for state comptroller to show cause why a hearing in which he seeks to ban four minor parties from the November 5 ballot should not be transferred from Rensselaer to Albany county, is returnable before the Appellate Division today (2 p. m.).

The action, brought by Spencer C. Young, has been stayed since last Thursday when Presiding Justice James P. Hill of the Appellate Division, on application of the state Communist party, directed Young to show cause why the hearing should not be changed to Albany county.

The hearing opened last week in T. before State Supreme Court Justice William H. Murray.

The order also restrained Justice Murray from continuing to hear arguments in the action until today.

Young seeks to eliminate the Communist, Socialist, Socialist Worker and Industrial Government parties from the ballot, contending that each of the minor parties secured some designating petition signatures through fraud.

At last week's hearing, several Rensselaer county voters testified they unwittingly signed Communist designating petitions without realizing the nature of the documents and without intending to vote for the Communist candidates.

In its application to Justice Hill, the Communist party maintained that the hearings should be held in Albany county.

Mead Says Battle For Governorship Now Underway

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30 (AP)—U. S. Senator James M. Mead (D-N.Y.), Democratic gubernatorial candidate who was rousing fey by his neighbors over the week-end, said today the campaign for the governorship "is on."

East Side neighbors of Mead led a mile-long parade witnessed by about 5,000 persons, police said, Saturday night. Five drum corps serenaded him at his home.

He was honored at a banquet in the nearby village of Sloan where he got his first job as lantern boy on the Lackawanna railroad.

"I said I would not discuss politics until I had relinquished chairmanship of the war investigating committee of the Senate," Mead said in an interview.

"I resigned Friday, and so far as I am concerned the campaign is on. I feel gratified with the reception I received over the week-end in Buffalo."

Mead said he intended to campaign in central, northern and western New York until about October 25 and then center his activities in New York for about 10 days.

Truck Strike Remains Unsettled Over Week-End

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Representatives of striking truck drivers and officials of two large truck associations scheduled another meeting today in an effort to end completely the 29-day walkout which was partially settled last week.

The operators representatives and a union delegation representing Locals 807, 816 and 282 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (A.F.L.) met in a 12-hour session over the week-end but failed to reach agreement.

The union is asking the operators to agree to the "Bohach plan" which resulted in partial ending of the strike. The plan gave the drivers a wage increase from $64 for a 44-hour week to $71.40 for a 40-hour week.

Government Pays Heavily

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—The government is paying approximately $90,000,000 a month in compensation and pensions to more than 2,135,000 war veterans, including some whose service dates back to the Indian campaigns. In announcing this today, the Veterans Administration said that 75 per cent of the total are veterans of World War 2 with service-connected disabilities.

Home Builders Start
On 101,000 New Units

Washington, Sept. 30 (AP)—Home builders started work on 101,000 new dwellings in August and completed 62,800. Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt reported today.

The record of completions was better than July's, but the number of starts fell off 14,000. Hence Wyatt's August report lacked last month's prediction that the country would meet the goal of 1,200,000 veterans' homes started this year.

The goal itself is far short of the demand from veterans alone, the Wyatt report said, pointing to a Census Bureau survey showing that about 4,000,000 veterans want to build, buy or rent a home within a year.

Only 2,200,000 were willing to enter the market at present high prices, however, Wyatt said, and the average veteran is unable to pay more than $13 a month rent or buy for more than $5,500.

Waldman Is Dewey Man; Declares He Will Aid Campaign

Former Democratic Backer
Says Also He Will Vote for Dewey on Record

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Louis Waldman, labor lawyer and three-time Socialist candidate for governor of New York, announced yesterday that he will campaign and vote for Governor Thomas E. Dewey and his running mates on the Republican ticket.

Waldman, who left the Socialist party in 1936 and has since campaigned for several Democratic candidates, made his stand in the present campaign known in a letter to Dewey in which he characterized the governor as "the symbol in this campaign of the forces opposed to the extension of Communist totalitarian influence to our state government."

Waldman said in his letter that "it is now clear that the Democratic party in this state has made alliances with and accepted endorsements from the Communist-dominated American Labor Party and its left-wing allied organizations, C.I.O.-P.A.C., National Citizens Political Action Committee and the Independent Citizens Committee for the Arts, Sciences and Professions."

Waldman, who is legal representative for several A.F.L. unions, declared that "we have been paying for these political alliances in our trade unions where Communists have been allowed to gain control of powerful labor organizations in major and key industries."

He said this power enables Communists "to sow industrial strife, to call strikes for political reasons whenever the party line calls for it, or whenever such strikes will serve the interests of a foreign power—the Soviet Union."

MRS. AMOS R. NEWCOMBE

Helen S. Loughran, Former Music Instructor, Became Bride Saturday of Amos R. Newcombe

Miss Helen Shore Loughran, daughter of Mrs. Harold Scott Loughran, 27 John street, and the late Mr. Loughran was united in marriage to Amos Richard Newcombe, son of Mrs. Austin R. Newcombe of Manor Lake, and the late Mr. Newcombe, Saturday at 4:30 p. m. The wedding took place at the First Dutch Reformed Church with the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Raymond Rignall, organist, played a half hour of the music of Bach, Wagner, Franck, Debussy and Handel, preceding the ceremony as well as the wedding march from "Lohengrin" by Wagner for the processional and the wedding march from "Mid-Summer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn for the recessional. Palms and white chrysanthemums were used in the church decorations.

The bride, who was escorted by her brother-in-law, William H. Hilton, was given in marriage by her mother. She wore an ivory tulle gown designed with fitted bodice, yoke of Duchesse lace, long pointed sleeves, and bouffant skirt with train. Her long illusion veil was caught to a coronet and cap of Duchesse lace. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and

Mrs. William H. Hilton was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a powder blue jersey gown with fitted bodice, draped collar, full skirt with short train, and gold kid belt. She wore matching ostrich tips in her hair. The bridesmaids were the Misses Frances Nettleton, cousin of the bride, of Ottawa, Canada; Sally Lou Hovey, New Rochelle; Harriet Hill, Chagrin Falls, O.; and Mrs. Eugene Horger, New York.

Mr. Newcombe is a graduate of Riverside Military Academy and Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania where he became a member of Sigma Phi Sigma Fraternity. He is vice president of the Austin R. Newcombe and Co., Inc., of Kingston and is a member of the Rotary Club.

MRS. HOWARD C. ST. JOHN

Howard C. St. John, Law Student, Weds Phyllis R. Ertel at First Dutch Church

The wedding of Miss Phyllis Ruth Ertel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick James Ertel, 322 Albany avenue to Howard Chambers St. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Raymond St. John, 56 Linderman avenue, took place Sunday at 4 p. m. in the First Dutch Reformed Church. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Raymond Rignall, organist, included in her selections "Ich Liebe Dich," Grieg; "Romance," Lieberich; "Toerne," Fibich; "Romance," Debussy; "Serenade," Schubert; "Be Thou But Near," Bach; "On Wings of Song," Mendelssohn; "Dedication," Franz; "Serenade," Piere; "Calm as the Night," Bohm. The decorations in the church were autumnal in character with rich red autumn leaves against the soft gray walls of the church, and yellow and copper chrysanthemums and yellow candles.

Mr. Ertel gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of ivory Duchesse satin was made with fitted bodice embellished with a net yoke under a deep bertha of French lace, long sleeves with the same lace at the cuffs and full skirt terminating in a long train. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a Juliet cap of French lace caught with fresh bouquet blossoms. She carried white roses and bouquet in an old fashioned bouquet.

Miss Bianca Ertel, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a rich yellow chiffon gown made with square neckline and full skirt with deep ruffles in back from waist to hemline. The bridesmaids: Mrs. John Schomer, sister of the bride; Mrs. Karl Edward Lefren, both of this city; Miss

Oscar Tschirky Has Eightieth Birthday

New Paltz, Sept. 30 — Oscar Tschirky of New Paltz, more familiarly known as "Oscar of the Waldorf," celebrated his 80th birthday Saturday. Last Wednesday he was guest of honor at a surprise birthday luncheon sponsored by his friends at the Waldorf Astoria in New York city. He has been associated with the old and new Waldorfs for 53 years. He is still an adviser although Claudius Charles Philippe succeeded him three years ago as chef. Mr. Tschirky is now able to spend part of every week at his farm in New Paltz.

Milk to Advance One Cent Tuesday In New York Area

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—The retail price of milk will go up one cent a quart tomorrow in the metropolitan area, Edward O. Mather, executive director of the Milk Dealers Association of metropolitan New York, said yesterday.

Mather said milk producers had notified the association that prices would be raised 40 cents a hundredweight for milk and cream, effective tomorrow, and that wholesalers would pass the increase on to the consumers.

Representatives of the Sheffield Farms Company and the Borden Company, the city's two largest distributors, agreed with Mather's statement that the increase would be passed on to consumers.

Distributors said the new retail prices generally would be 20 cents a quart for milk purchased in stores and 22 cents when delivered at home. An additional cents a quart for milk purchased milk and another cent if a paper container is used. Cream will go up one cent a half pint.

Stefane Tallies Only Touchdown In Second Period

Jack Ruzzo Sparks Losers on Passing Offensive; Ground Attack Fails to Click Properly

The 3,000 odd football fans who jammed municipal stadium Saturday night were convinced that the Kingston Athletic Association's football team packs a big wallop on the passing offensive but lacks a scoring threat on the ground as the Walden Red Tigers nipped the locals by the score of 6 to 0. It was Kingston's first loss in the Hudson Valley Semi-Pro Football League.

Walden pushed over the only score of the game late in the second period when Jim Stefane plunged over from the one-yard line, Stefane's touchdown culminated a 62-yard sustained drive from Walden's 38.

Stars for Losers

JACK RUZZO

Kingston muffed a number of scoring opportunities from the outset of the arduous contest. Led by Jack Ruzzo's splendid passing efforts, the locals knocked on the door numerous times but failed to walk in. In all Kingston heaved 18 aerials and completed nine for a total yardage gain of 110.

It was the ground failure, however, which led to Kingston's setback. During the first half Kingston picked up exactly six yards by rushing. The ground attack improved during the final two periods when 46 yards were gained.

Kingston clicked off a 60-yard sustained drive in the first period when it marched from the 30 to Walden's 10 on the strength of completed passes by "Whitey" Grommel and Pete Marone. A forward from Marone to Pete Rounnels, who flipped a lateral to Jack Ruzzo advanced the ball to Walden's 10 but there the attack fizzled. Marone tried two line smashes but lost 17 yards in the attempt as the quarter expired.

Walden took over on its 38 as the second period opened and immediately started on its way for a touchdown. A series of line smashes by Gordon Dingee and Stefane sparked the ground drive as it ripped Kingston's line for repeated advances. After Stefane chucked a pass to Don Owen on Kingston's 15, Dingee carried it to the 2. Stefane finally plowed over for the touchdown.

Jack Ruzzo peeled off a brilliant 15-yard run in the third period after Walden booted. The former Marine almost got away for a touchdown gallop on his neatly-executed drive but was downed at the last minute. Ruzzo's pass to Andy Murphy brought Kingston aerial to Ben Bragg gave Walden a first down on Walden's 17 as the locals knocked again. Marone left the door closed, however, when his pass was intercepted by Al Wright of Walden on the 10.

Ruzzo runs 48 yards. Ruzzo, who spearheaded all of Kingston's offensives, started again when he took Fred Bach's punt and returned it 48 yards before the period ended. Ruzzo's gallop brought Kingston to striking distance again on Walden's 12. After Jack failed to pick up any yardage on a line smash, he dropped back and passed but Stefane of Walden snatched it for another interception and brought it back to the 12.

Kingston lost another opportunity in the last period when it penetrated to Walden's 12 yard stripe. This time Johnny Roebuck, Walden's left guard, stopped the threat when he intercepted Ruzzo's pass. The locals had driven to the 12 on a couple of line smashes and a 13 yard penalty to Walden for roughing a pass receiver.

Kingston's number one threat Saturday was the pass combination of Jack Ruzzo to Andy Murphy, the ex-Bucknell player.

Tom Curran, Kingston's tackle, left the game in the third period with a sprained back. He was carried out on a stretcher.

The Kingston A. A. eleven is scheduled to play an exhibition at the stadium next Saturday night.

Beacon Rips Clintons, 10-1 In League Playoff Sunday

Seventh Inning Rally Decides Outcome; Locals Limited to Two Hits

A neat 2 to 1 pitcher's duel between Jimmy Pomarico of the Beacon Recreation and Artie Barnes of the Gov. Clinton Market baseball team exploded in the seventh inning of Sunday's Mid-Hudson League playoff when Beacon scored a big bulge of five runs. The Rees came back in the eighth with three more to win easily, 10 to 1.

Despite yesterday's lacing in the final Rounders playoff series, the Gov. Clinton's still maintain the championship of the Mid-Hudson League which they won during the regulation season.

Pomarico limited the hard-hitting Clintons to just two bingles Sunday, both going for extra-bases. Jack "Daisy" Schatzel slammed out a triple for the losers and Jimmy Secreto whacked a double for the only two hits off Pomarico. Barnes, in losing, was touched for a total of 10 base knocks.

Beacon opened with a single marker in the first but the Clintons tied it up in the third with their only run of the game. The team came back in the bottom half of the third to take a slim 2-1 margin. Then came the big seventh inning uprising. Beacon put together three hits, a hit batsman, an error by the Clintons, a walk and two outfield drives for the cluster of five runs.

Mac Tiano, the rightfielder for the Gov. Clintons, was the defensive star of the game with the airtight fielding. Mac threw out two runners at the plate and another at third base. He came up with several other nice catches to help Barnes out of trouble.

By JOE REICHLER

(Associated Press Sports Writer) In a fitting climax to baseball's most turbulent year, the close of the regular season today found the National League without a champion, since the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals wound up in a dead heat for first place.

The Cards-Dodgers deadlock was something new in major league baseball. Never before had a regular campaign ended in such a tie, although the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants were ordered to replay a tie game to determine the championship in 1908. The Cubs won that regular season playoff and also the World Series.

The first Cards-Dodgers playoff is to be played in St. Louis tomorrow. The two teams will go to Brooklyn for a second game Thursday and possibly a third Friday.

This means the World Series will start next Sunday, October 6 instead of next Wednesday. Meanwhile the Red Sox will pass the time playing an all-star squad in several exhibition games.

Neither the Dodgers nor the Cards had the punch necessary to put over the knockout blow yesterday. A victory for either team meant the championship, but the Cards bowed to St. Louis, 4-0, and the Boston Braves 4-0, while the Cards were beaten by Johnny Schmitz and the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

The Cubs retained their one-game margin over the Braves in beating the Cardinals and wound up in third place.

Managers who quit during the year were Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati, Frank Frisch of Pittsburgh, Jimmy Dykes of Chicago's White Sox, Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns and Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees and his successor, Bill Dickey.

Bob Feller won 26 games and whiffed 348 batters to better Rube Waddell's official strike record of 342 (unofficial mark is 349).

Yesterday's final results:

Browns Are Top Team: 4 Victories In Grid League

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—Cleveland's Browns remain the only unbeaten, untied team in the all-America Football Conference today, victorious in their first four starts.

The Browns stopped the New York Yankees 24-7 yesterday while the Chicago Rockets turned back the San Francisco Forty Niners by the same score. The Los Angeles Dons dropped from the all-victorious class by playing a 21-21 tie with the Buffalo Bills.

Pass interceptions and Yankee fumbles helped the Browns to their fourth triumph at Cleveland. Otto Graham passed eight yards to Dante Lavelli for one Cleveland touchdown and set up another, scored by Don Greenwood, when he needed 28 yards to Mar. Spoo die.

Edgar Jones rambled 58 yards for Cleveland's third touchdown and Lou Groza completed the scoring with a 14-yard field goal. New York's only touchdown, in the first period, came on a 14-yard pass from Urban Sanders to John Russell.

Giants Will Play Boston; Bears and Eagles Standouts

New York, Sept. 30 (AP)—The first full week-end of play in the National Football League will be rounded out tonight with the New York Giants meeting the Boston Yanks on the latter's field and the Detroit Lions tangling with the Cardinals at Chicago.

Three games yesterday left the Chicago Bears and Philadelphia Eagles in command of the circuit's two divisions.

The Bears rolled over the Green Bay Packers 30-7, and the Eagles stopped the defending champion Los Angeles Rams 25-14. In the only other game of the day, the Pittsburgh Steelers, who stole a march on the rest of the league by beating the Cardinals the previous week, and the Washington Redskins played a 14-14 tie.

Onondaga County Physician Heads State TB Group

Replaces Dr. F. Holcomb as President of Superintendents Association

Dr. Bernard T. Brown from the Onondaga county Sanatorium, Syracuse, was elected president of the New York State Association of Superintendents and Managers of Tuberculosis Sanatoria on Friday when the annual meeting of the association was held at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital in this city. He succeeded Dr. Frederick Holcomb, who had served as president for two years since the organization did not hold annual sessions during the war period. Dr. James M. Blake of the Schenectady County Hospital, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The 40 members present were welcomed to Kingston by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, president of the board of managers of the local hospital.

Fraise Local Hospital
Friday morning a business session was held at the hospital. During the sessions many of the visiting members of the association expressed approval of the splendid condition and management of the Ulster county hospital. Mrs. Weber and members of the staff were complimented on the splendid condition in which the hospital unit is maintained and there were numerous expressions of approval of the general layout of the institution buildings and grounds.

The 1947 session will be held at the Onondaga County Sanatorium in Syracuse.

At 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon a medical session was conducted, lasting to 5 o'clock. During the morning session there was a round table discussion on "Criteria for Discontinuing Therapeutic Pneumothorax."

Dr. William G. Childress of Grasslands Hospital, Westchester county, presiding.

At the afternoon session Dr. A. M. Skinner, New York State Tuberculosis Hospital surgeon, presided, and discussed "Endo-Bronchial Tuberculosis." Dr. Skinner brought with him three patients for demonstration purposes. Dr. Joseph Jacobson of Kingston discussed during the session, "Pneumonia Locally in Intra-pulmonary infection."

Dinner was served at the Twaalfskill Club in the evening and was followed by a conference which lasted until 11 o'clock. At the evening session there was discussion of problem cases and X-rays were shown for study. This session was presided over by Dr. Robert Yeager, sanatorium director at Summit Park Sanatorium, Rockland county.

Represented at the sessions were all of the Tuberculosis Hospitals of the state and about 30 county institutions.

Paul Joyce New Head of Woodstock Post
Woodstock, Sept. 30 — Paul Joyce of West Hurley was named as the new commander of Woodstock Post, 1026, American Legion, at the annual election of officers September 25. Other officers elected are: Perry Franching, second vice-commander; Jack Fitzsimmons, third vice-commander; Robert Nussbaum, adjutant; John Peper, treasurer; Ben Buley, chaplain; Joe Friedburg, service officer. It was noted that almost all the officers are filled with veterans of World War 2.

The officers are planning quite a number of activities for the future and feel sure that veterans of Woodstock and vicinity who have not joined the American Legion will find Woodstock Post, 1026, a worthwhile organization.

There will be a public installation of officers, date to be announced, at which ceremony everyone will be welcome.
